HAPPENINGS OF INTEREST FROM DIFFERENT SECTIONS

Three little pigs and a young gosling live together in a pen at the home of Hugh O'Neil in White River Junction. They eat together from the same trough, and when the gosling lies down for a nap the pigs encircle her and also take a snooze.

Octave Belanger, who was killed by a locomotive in North Adams, Mass., last Saturday, was a former resident of Wilmington, where his daughter now resides. Mr. Belanger, being very deaf, did not hear the locomotive approaching as he walked along the track.

Saloon keepers in several Vermont cities are quoted as saying that the "movies" affect the liquor trade. Dealers who have been passing out fermented beverages, wines and spirituous liquors for years say that their receipts have shown a perceptible falling-off since the moving pictures have been shown at popular prices.

Miss Edith M. Barrett, a Rutland young woman, was taken seriously ill recently while camping at Lake Bomoseen. Doctors diagnosed her case as ptomaine poisoning.

Frederick Nason of St. Albans, a fireman on the night switching train in the freight yard at New London, Conn., was decapitated and his body horribly mutilated Saturday night when he was caught in a side-swing collision just north of the union passenger station. Nason evidently attempted to jump but he was literally jammed to death and his body crushed and scalded. His wife was with him in New London at the time.

In Bennington municipal court recently, Edward Hall of that town and Clarence Daley of Schenectady, N. Y., were convicted of having short trout in their possession. Each paid $15.

Rutland marble workers held a mass meeting last Saturday night and were addressed in several tongues by various speakers. The proceedings were not given out.

The alumni association of the Kurn Hattin homes will hold its first annual reunion at Westminster, Aug. 20.

A. C. Houghton, a former major and prominent resident at Northampton, Mass., who was in an auto accident Aug. 1 which resulted in the death of his daughter and another woman, died Aug. 11. While Mr. Houghton, himself, sustained comparatively minor injuries in the accident, the shock undoubtedly hastened his death.

Vermont musicians and persons of musical festivals in the days when such affairs were more popular than to-day, will remember Mrs. Martha Dana Shepard, the pianist, and Henri C. Blaisdell, the conductor. The death of both has been announced. Mrs. Shepard having passed away at her home in Dorchester, Mass., a few days ago, after a long illness. Mr. Blaisdell died suddenly while playing at Lakeport, N. H., sometime earlier in the month.

One night recently Carl D. Griggs of Sutton, P. Q., collector of provincial revenue and Bailiff James Stowell joined State's attorney G. F. Ladd and Deputy Sheriff Phaneuf of Richford in a raid on "the lion house," so called, on the northern border of Vermont. About 100 bottles and two jugs of assorted liquors were seized. The same place has been raided three times since January.

Newspaper men of Vermont will soon be leaving for Rutland to attend the annual meeting of the Press association. An effort is being made to secure Secretary of the Navy Josephus Daniels of Raleigh, N. C., as the speaker. Secretary Daniels is the editor of the Raleigh News and Observer. A trip to Mount Killington is one of the features in prospect.

Dr. Elmore T. Arnold, aged 55, a prominent Ludlow physician, passed away Aug. 11.

En route from Hampton, Conn., where they have been with Massachusetts regulars, the 1st squadron, 2d battery, stationed at Fort Ethan Allen, will go into camp at Manchester.

The old Italian marble quarry, located on the Mott D. Warner place north of Brandon, has been reopened. The property is owned by the Shuttleworth corporation of New York and has been idle some years. A superintendent has been arrived and 25 men are now employed. The reason for opening the quarry is said to be the shortage of corporation receipts from Italy due to the war in Italy and the danger of transportation.

A fire, cause unknown, did slight damage to the Kilts club in Burlington Monday evening. The club is located on Pearl street, just above Willard. The fire started in the cellar and as the janitor, Joseph Sullivan, was away, the only persons around were two families residing on the second floor. A man coming down Pearl street first discovered the blaze bursting through the cellar windows and a full alarm was rung in. The fire was confined to the cellar. The building is owned by E. S. Adair and is insured in the Hickok agency.

Perez Whitcomb's Descendants Met.

The fourth annual reunion of the descendants of Perez Whitcomb was held Aug. 8 at Chestnut Hill farm in Springfield. About 60 members of the Whitcomb family were present and the morning was given over to conversation. At 1 o'clock a dinner was served at tables arranged on the lawn. A business meeting of the association followed, ex-President H. J. Whitcomb presiding in the absence of President M. C. Whitcomb. The secretary read the report of the last year and several letters, and the association voted to send a letter of greeting to Mrs. Martha Whitcomb of Lowell, Mass., the only survivor of the second generation of descendants of Perez Whitcomb. The election of officers followed. W. R. Whitcomb was chosen president for the coming year; Miss Bertha Whitcomb, secretary; and E. F. Whitcomb, treasurer. A program of speeches and recitations followed and the company broke up at a late hour in the afternoon, deeply grateful to Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Whitcomb and their daughters, who did so much to make the occasion the success it was.
